Inventory Valuations

AASS' proprietary software and robust database provide valuable, relevant information to analyze inventories, both large and small, for estimates of market value, demand and pricing, and the time line for monetizing inventory. The software utilizes a comprehensive range of criteria using both AASS' database of inventories and data from third parties, and covers all major aircraft models. This information is invaluable to customers when tailoring asset realization and inventory management programs.

Warehousing

AASS has modern, high capacity purpose built facilities for the storage and distribution of aircraft parts and components. These facilities are fully equipped for the efficient handling of large volumes of parts and components, and operate to the highest parameters of our ISO 9001:2015 + AS9120B accreditation. All storage is designed and structured to meet the requirements of specific inventory, including engines, oversized and temperature sensitive parts and components. Security is multi-faceted.
